KIKUO NISHIDA of the Japanese Ministry of Education in charge of student affairs is visiting the Brigham Young University campus to study American Student Personnel Services.

"Japan is anxious to develop service to help the students help themselves," stated Nishida as he explained that the Japanese student services were not well organized.

ILLUSTRATING their need of a effective student personnel ervice, Nishida cited that American students were able to obtain "permanent part-time jobs" where as Japanese students "must find a new job every two or three days."

When asked how the Japanese school systems differs from ours, Nishida remarked, "Also in Japan adopted the same educational system as the United States We are now striving to make adjustment between the system and the social background of the students."

JAPAN NOW has 500 "institutes of higher learning" but because of lack of financial aid many universities are public and sometimes faculties.

After leaving Brigham Young University Nishida will visit two or three other universities before completing his four months' stay in the United States.

"I was favored with the fine relationships of the faculty and of the students," complimented Nishida. "It was a great fortune for me to spend four weeks here at Brigham Young University.

Pomroy travels to NSA members universities throughout the country, working with NSA representatives, observing student government problems and suggesting new methods and aids of governing and stimulating new areas in which student government can better fulfill its role for the students.

WHILE ON the BYU campus Pomroy discussed campus problems and NSA policies with Murray McInnes, NSA representative.

According to Pomroy students today actively participate on committees with faculty and administrators in a manner unheard of 10 years ago At BYU studegts have assumed increasingly larger responsibilities in those areas affecting the college community.

HOWEVER the nature and purpose of student government and student activity are clearly defined, and each element within the college community holds a firm of student government in a different role. Due to these differences of opinion cooperation is essential before student participation can achieve any degree of significance.

Individual student governments are at present pursuing programs which have little or no educational value The activities of most student governments have slight relation to the central purpose of the college, according to Pomroy.

WITH THE increased demand on students' time and greater effort necessary to prepare the student for responsibilities beyond college, activities must begin to make definite contributions to these educational goals of the student. In the way these activities will be justifying their continued existence stressed, Pomroy.

A USNSA survey indicates that there is a desire on the part of most student leaders for greater authority and range for their activities, but the students as a group exhibit an apparent apathy to assume the responsibility incurred by such authority

Chimes Toll On Credit Til Classes Pay Bill

Brigham Young University's traditional carillonic bells toll out the hours but are not paid for fully.

The carillon bells were installed during winter quarter of 1955. At that time the classes of 1955, 1956, 1957 and 1958 agreed to purchase the bells as their class projects

BYU advanced $17,000 of the original $18,000 purchase with the class of 1955 contributing $1,000. Each class was to pay their respective debts to the school by July, 1958.

At the present time $8,147 of the debt has been paid leaving a balance of $9,853.

Dr. Henry Isaksen, student coordinator, stated in a recent interview "The classes of 1955 and 1956 have not completely fulfilled their obligation. It is planned to contact alumni involved and ask them to finish the project."

Mike Yoshino, senior class president, reported that seniors will be asked to make their part of the obligation in the form of personal contributions. A senior class committee has been formed to handle the collection.

This year's junior class is now in the process of forming a similar committee to handle its debt.

A studentbody carillon bell committee has been placed in charge of operation and maintenance of the instrument Members are: Dr Henry Isaksen, student coordinator, chairman; Monroe McKay, studentbody president; the four class presidents; faculty members J. Bigotry Warning Sounded In U.S. By Chief Justice

NEW YORK, (INS)—U. S. Chief Justice Earl Warren warned Monday freedom can be endangered unless Americans guard against intolerance

The Chief Justice declared that it is "more essential than at atomic age for people of good will to join together for "peace based on brotherhood."

"The world is in a sorry condition today," Warren told the 48th annual luncheon meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

"Enslaved peoples with the courage to assert their freedom are being subjected for that reason alone to cruelty almost beyond the understanding of Americans.

"Our hearts go out to them and we pray for their delivery. We can do more We can promote it here at home—in our states, in our cities, in our neighborhoods The freedom we have here in America, the sounder our foundation is, the more forceful can be its other parts of the world."

Earlier, Warren joined with former Governor Thomas E Dewey in dedicating the Charles Evans Hughes hall at the Headquarters of the conference.

Freshmen Maintain Suggestion Box For Soliciting Ideas

IN ORDER TO PLAN the best possible program for the ensuing year the freshmen cabinet has decided to maintain a suggestion box for worth-while ideas

The box will be in the student coordinators office, located in the basement of the Joseph Service Center. The title, "Sloan Hales, Class of 1960," will be found on the box.

Class officers urge any freshmen who might have an idea for some type of class social or service undertaking to turn in their ideas as soon as possible

"The cabinet is in the process of setting up a full program for the freshmen class, they should also hope that every member of the class will take advantage of this box," stated Hales, Class President

Ideas suggested so far include class skating party, several types of dances, a freshmen picnic and a Christmas gung ewing party.

The cabinet has held weekly meetings in order to attempt to provide the best possible program for the freshmen, Hales said Each member of the class is asked to do his part by turning in suggested projects as soon as possible.

Frosh Duo Provides First-Aid, Ambulance As Student Service

by Tom Worlton
Daily Universe Writer

A NEW FEATURE at Brigham Young University is the ambulance service offered by two BYU freshmen.

The two men, Fred Williams and Ted Myers, are both licensed first aid instructors Williams is a licensed vocational nurse.

Both have served 11 years as Navy hospital corpsmen, and "older freshmen," they wanted to provide some service for the school.

THIS AMBULANCE service is on call 24 hours a day. The men stand ready at sports events and daytime student activities.

The service will also be provided to any student who needs to be transported to or from a hospital.

The ambulance is licensed by the Utah State Commission and is an active part of the civil defense of Utah County and BYU.

Williams and Meyers would like anyone who is interested in helping in this work to contact them. They need helpers for first aid assistants and drivers.

HELPERS WOULD work for two hours a week. Everyone who major activities, but this merely joins the unit will receive a first aid course and card.

They now receive a salary for covers expenses.

This ambulance serves all of Utah County. Any time a student is injured off campus in skiing or other mountain activities he should call the ambulance. The unit will pick him up and the only cost will be for the gas.

WHEN ANYONE is injured in such an activity, a person who is inexperienced in first aid should not try to help, stressed Williams. The first action should be to call for the ambulance, he pointed out.

Whenever one is in need of an ambulance he should contact them through the health center of in an emergency off campus call FR 3-7081.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer sells million-dollar equipment to utilities

Selling electric equipment for a utility substation—a complex unit used in power transmission and distribution—requires extensive technical knowledge of the products involved. Men who sell such complex equipment must also know a customer's requirements, what will best fill his needs, and how to sell the merits of their products to the executives who buy such apparatus.

One such man at General Electric is 31-year-old Allen J. Clay, an apparatus sales engineer serving the electrical utility companies in the Philadelphia-Allentown area.

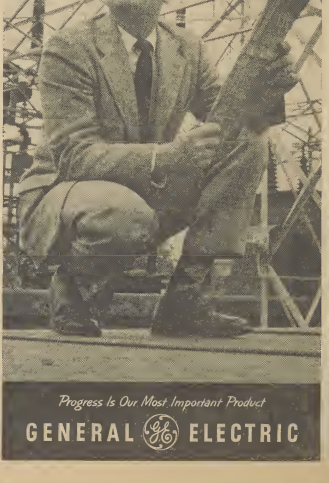
Clay's Work Is Important, Diversified

For Clay, technical selling is not a door-to-door job. As a representative of General Electric, he must be ready to discuss customer needs with vice presidents or help solve intricate problems with skilled engineers. His recommendations are based on his own engineering background, and are backed up by the know-how of the Company's best application engineers. His interest in working with people carries over into his community life, where he takes a part in many local activities—Rotary, Community Chest, Boy Scouts, and his University Engineering Alumni Association.

27,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Allen Clay is a well-rounded individual who has come to be a spokesman for General Electric wherever he goes. Like each of our 27,000 college-graduate employees, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York



ALLEN J. CLAY joined General Electric in 1946 after receiving a B.E.E. from the University of Virginia in 1945. A naval officer during World War II, Clay managed the Charlottesville, Virginia, office from 1950 to 1955.

Colorful Skin, Hair for Women Predicted by Cosmetic Expert

CHICAGO, (INS) — Nobody will notice whether your nose is shiny in the year 2,000, Madame.

They'll be too busy looking at your purple or orange hair and your pale blue or orange skin makeup, according to a research chemist who now has his own cosmetics business.

And before men start guffawing, Dr. Joseph Schultz also predicts that men will be wearing makeup on their faces less than fifty years from now using rouge, lipstick and powder in the current tones women are wearing today.

AS DR SCHULTZ sees it, "some women who are extreme in their styling, will be applying a two-tone color job—hair dye in one color and face makeup in a directly opposite, contrasting shade."

But even the "old fashioned" girl in the 21st century will benefit from the new cosmetic techniques if she stays away from rainbow colored tones on skin and hair.

Dr Schultz, who holds a Ph.D. in chemistry, said: "All makeup will be semi-permanent. The wearer of rouge, lipstick and powder will be able to wash their faces and sleep without one trace of makeup coming off."

SO WHAT happens if you choose a color scheme you find objectionable?

"By that time," said Dr Schultz, "there will be a special preparation in which makeup off quicker than any soap or cream does today."

In literally wearing their faces, the manufacturer said, women will, if they wish, be the same color from head to toe —that includes hair, face, dress and finger and toe nail polish."

MEN, TOO 49-year old manufacturer of cosmetics and skin preparations said, will be forced to use makeup to keep from fading away against vividly painted and preened women.

He said:

"Man is the only creature in the animal kingdom where the male is drab and the female colorful."

Besides cosmetics, the chemist said "Babies will vanish from public view—not because of a cure for hair fall-out but because bonpees will be accepted just as eyeglasses are nowadays."

Skyline Goes On Scoring Spree; Averages 69.3 Points Per Game

by Mark Murphy

BASKETBALL yet?

Skyline conference teams evidently agreed not to defend against each other last Saturday as games reached astronomical scores reminiscent of a popular winter sport.

Denver and Brigham Young treated Denver homecoming fans to a track meet which produced 82 points. The Pioneers tired badly after a wild 45 point first half and hung on the ropes in the latter stages while BYU tired their luck at scoring. Denver out ran the Cougars 58-34 to set the pace for an afternoon of sky high Skyline scores.

WYOMING'S Waddles tired of toying with Montana's shaggish Grizzlies in a 13-13 first half and racked up three second-half scores to win going away 34-13

For the potent Pokes it was their ninth straight win of an undefeated season and clinched the conference title. The Pokes are also being eyed by several bowl committees.

WYOMING'S rugged line play was the factor in the win with big Jim Crawford pretty well bottled up by the Silvertips.

Utah's slumping Redskins were able to salvage a win after three straight setbacks in overcoming Colorado A&M 40-27 in Fort Collins. It was a case of who had the more porous pass defense, and the oft-beaten Aggies were shown up in this department.

THE UTES could boast only a 14-13 halftime lead but crisp blocks and swift backs broke the game wide open in the second half for the impressive point total.

Utah State's hot and cold Aggies took a 42-20 battering at the hands of a resurgent Idaho Vandal eleven, to keep pace with other conference members in the point race.

A bruising Vandal line gave Aggie passer Bob Winters a battering and took some of the shine off All-American candidate Jack Hill in their convincing triumph.

BIG MEL SCHMIDT, quarterbacks Garry Johnson and Howard Willis were the big offensive stars for Idaho, but even a 255-lb. tackle got into the scoring act. Jim Prestel ran like a tank awry with an intercepted Winters' pass and "sped" into the end zone for the final Vandal touchdown.

By the time all Skyline teams had collapsed in the showers, a total of 577 points had been scored. This is an average of 69 2 per game. The losers scored a total of 94 points and none of them came close to winning.

Next week may produce some more scores capable of driving defensive experts to drink. Colorado's vaunted Buffalos, now assured a berth in the Orange Bowl, meet Utah's battered Redskins in Salt Lake City. Wyoming's defensive champs and one of few undefeated national powers should give Brigham Young's troubled Cougars no rest in their Provo tussle.

That's Rich

by Rich Hall

AFTER RIDING on the victors cloud for one week follow their win over New Mexico the Brigham Young University pummeled earthward again following the defeat at Denver Saturday.

We were not at the ball game, but from what we heard the radio and read in various newspaper accounts of the gam was one of the most mixed up affairs the Skyline has seen in m a moon.

THE CONFUSION seemed to start about the time the offi decided that since it was Denvers Homecoming they should five chances to score instead of the usual four down series.

The Pioneers, not wanting to offend the kind-hearted offi scored on a fifth down situation that sounded much like a "Be It Or Not" deal.

PERHAPS we should clue in our down marker man th he feels the Cats could use an extra down every now and he should just neglect to flip the marker over after a play. knows, we may need an extra down someday.

Later in the game fullback Steve Campora crossed into Denver end zone but fumbled the ball. End Tom Clark recov but the officials did their best to call that one a touchback move the ball out to the twenty yard line. Clever call, that one

WE HAVE FELT this year that we should give the offi the benefit of the doubt on calls that we disagreed with. They the ones who often see things the people sitting high up don't, likewise miss a few that people sitting in the stands can catch.

But thinks like the two situations cited above are hard t pass. We feel that most officials should at least be able to coun

ACTUALLY the bad calls may not have made much differ in the outcome of the ball game. Denver had a 45-0 lead at time which is a pretty commanding score to hold after two q ters of play.

We do feel that the Cougars made what can be called or their best comebacks of the year, even if it was against mostly ond and third strikers.

ANY BALL CLUB that can spot their opponent 58 points then come back to score 34 of their own deserves a pat on the for staying in the game all the way.

Things look pretty bleak for next weekend when the C boys from Wyoming come galloping into Provo planning on r roughshod over the Cats.

But after being humiliated at Denver for two quarters wee that the BYU varsity isn't about to let it happen again. expect on their home field.

We are looking for a better ball game Saturday.
